

CALL FOR PAPERS

The Editors of the Studia Psychologica are currently seeking contributions for the monothematic issue of Studia Psychologica in 2010:

The monothematic issue of Studia Psychologica in 2010 will focus on Personality and Quality of Life. However, the focus will not be so much on problems of living standards (material-civilization values), as problems of lifestyle and, predominantly, solutions to creating quality of life by personality factors.

The Editors expect articles focusing on explaining the main psychological phenomena of quality of life (satisfaction, well-being, etc) - individually or together - on different samples of population.

We also welcome surveys by authors who devote their long-term research, topical and especially interdisciplinary, to the study of the quality of life.

Finally, what is also welcome is information on the development, or psychometric processing of new methods for assessing phenomena of the psychology of quality of life.

Submission deadline: September 30, 2009
